ILMS Doon University

ILMS, i.e., the INFLIBNET Learning Management Service, is provided by the Information and Library Network Centre (an IUC of UGC) to institutions of higher education across the country. This service is available to all Central, State, and Deemed universities upon request. The ILMS is developed on the Moodle platform, an open-source learning management service designed to offer seamless access to educators, administrators, and learners through a unified platform for creating personalized learning environments. The software encompasses a range of features and functions expected from any learning management service for delivering online courses.

Doon University has entered into an MoU for the utilization of this service and has established the LMS of Doon University, which is hosted on the INFLIBNET server. Despite limited facilities for course creation, such as a media lab and various-software, many faculty members have successfully developed courses on the LMS. The university is actively encouraging faculty members to engage in course development, showcasing their dedication and resourcefulness in utilizing the available facilities.
